

German Attributive Adjectives German English Spanish Chinese German Vocabulary

German attributive adjectives are adjectives that come before the noun they modify. They are used to describe the noun and provide more information about it. Attributive adjectives can be used in both singular and plural forms, and they must agree in gender and number with the noun they modify.

GERMAN ATTRIBUTIVE ADJECTIVES - 3 German English Spanish Chinese (GERMAN VOCABULARY BOOK)

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 2014 KB

Print length: 370 pages

Lending : Enabled

Forms of German Attributive Adjectives

There are three forms of German attributive adjectives:

- Strong: This form is used when the adjective is in the nominative case and precedes a noun that is in the nominative or accusative case.
- Weak: This form is used when the adjective is in the genitive, dative, or accusative case and follows a noun that is in the genitive or dative case.

- Mixed: This form is used when the adjective is in the genitive or dative case and precedes a noun that is in the nominative or accusative case.

Declension of German Attributive Adjectives

German attributive adjectives are declined according to their gender, number, and case. The following table shows the declension of the adjective "gut" (good):

Case	Singular	Plural
Nominative	guter	gute
Genitive	guten	guter
Dative	gutem	guten
Accusative	guten	gute

Comparison of German Attributive Adjectives

German attributive adjectives can be compared using the following degrees of comparison:

- Positive: This is the basic form of the adjective.
- Comparative: This form is used to compare two things.
- Superlative: This form is used to compare three or more things.

The following table shows the comparison of the adjective "gut" (good):

Degree	Singular	Plural
Positive	gut	gute
Comparative	besser	bessere
Superlative	best	beste

Examples of German Attributive Adjectives

Here are some examples of German attributive adjectives in use:

- Der gute Mann
- Die schöne Frau
- Das große Haus
- Die kleinen Kinder
- Der alte Baum

German attributive adjectives are an important part of the German language. They are used to describe nouns and provide more information about them. Attributive adjectives can be used in both singular and plural forms, and they must agree in gender and number with the noun they modify.

GERMAN ATTRIBUTIVE ADJECTIVES - 3 German English Spanish Chinese (GERMAN VOCABULARY BOOK)

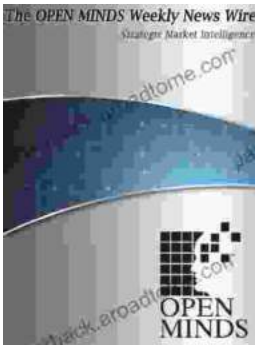

★★★★★ 5 out of 5

Language : English

File size : 2014 KB

Print length : 370 pages

Lending : Enabled

Wisconsin Clinic Pilots Mobile Crisis Response System For Consumers With Mental Health Conditions

MADISON, Wis. - A new mobile crisis response system is being piloted in Wisconsin to help consumers with mental health conditions. The system, which is being led by...

Unleash Your Creativity: A Masterclass in Fabulous Nail Decorating Ideas

Embellish Your Fingertips with Captivating Designs and Techniques Get ready to elevate your nail art game to new heights with "Fabulous Nail Decorating Ideas," a...