The South Vietnamese Army (ARVN) was a formidable fighting force during the Vietnam War. Its armored forces played a vital role in many of the war's major battles, including the Tet Offensive and the Battle of Saigon. This book is a comprehensive visual history of the ARVN's armored forces. It features rare and unpublished photographs of tanks, armored cars, and self-propelled artillery in action during the war.

The book also includes detailed descriptions of the organization, tactics, and equipment of the ARVN armored forces. It is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the military history of the Vietnam War.

The Organization of the ARVN Armored Forces

The ARVN armored forces were organized into three armored brigades. Each brigade consisted of three tank battalions, one armored cavalry squadron, and one self-propelled artillery battalion. The tank battalions were equipped with M41 Walker Bulldog tanks, while the armored cavalry squadrons were equipped with M113 armored personnel carriers.

The ARVN armored forces were supported by a number of other units, including engineer, signal, and medical units. The ARVN also had a small number of helicopter units that were used to transport troops and supplies.
