These dynamic and captivating sports will add an unprecedented level of energy and excitement to the Games, showcasing the incredible athleticism and artistry of their participants.

Breakdancing: The Pulse of the Street

Breakdancing, also known as breakin', is an electrifying art form that combines rhythm, movement, and improvisation. Originating in the Bronx in the 1970s, breakdancing has become a global phenomenon, captivating audiences with its energetic beats and gravity-defying moves.

In Paris 2024, breakdancers will compete in one-on-one battles, showcasing their unique styles and technical prowess. The judges will evaluate participants on their footwork, power moves, freezes, and overall creativity.

Skateboarding: Rolling Revolution

Skateboarding has emerged from a humble pastime into one of the most popular extreme sports in the world. With its adrenaline-pumping tricks and impressive stunts, skateboarding has captured the imagination of millions.

At the 2024 Games, skateboarders will compete in two disciplines: park and street. Park skateboarding will feature athletes performing daring jumps and spins in a custom-built skatepark, while street skateboarding will showcase realistic urban obstacles.

Sport Climbing: Vertical Challenge

Sport climbing is a demanding sport that tests both physical endurance and mental focus. Climbers ascend sheer rock faces, relying on their strength, agility, and technical skills.

In Paris 2024, climbers will compete in three disciplines: bouldering, lead climbing, and speed climbing. Bouldering involves tackling short, challenging routes without ropes, while lead climbing requires climbers to ascend a high wall with ropes for safety. Speed climbing is a race against the clock, where climbers aim to reach the top of a towering wall as quickly as possible.

Surfing: Riding the Waves

Surfing is a thrilling water sport that harnesses the power of the ocean. Surfers ride waves, using their bodies and surfboards to maneuver through the water.

The debut of surfing in the 2024 Games will mark a significant moment for the sport and its passionate community. Surfers will compete in shortboard and longboard events, showcasing their skill and grace while riding some of the best breaks in the world.
